

The School of Health and Human Performance in Dublin City University (DCU) are currently performing a nationwide research project to investigate the knowledge, attitudes and perceptions towards concussion in Gaelic Games. We are currently recruiting players, coaches and referees greater than 18 years of age to partake in this research. Participants can be involved in Gaelic Football, Hurling or Camogie. We are currently contacting GAA club secretaries nationally and requesting that they forward this email to all of their club's members.

The research involves completing a short online questionnaire that will take approximately 8-10 minutes. The link for this questionnaire is below.
